Mayor Hosts Developers Conference

Today, Mayor James J. Fiorentini attended the Developers Conference at 90 Washington Street in Haverhill to help establish a strong, long-lasting connection between developers and brokers.

The conference, held from 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., was organized by Mayor Fiorentini to not only allow real estate brokers to showcase their properties, but to also give both parties the opportunity for networking. Bill Pillsbury, Economic Development and Planning for the City of Haverhill, facilitated the dialogue that manifested between developers and brokers at the conference. Commercial real estate brokers brought visual aids to show developers the physical structure of their buildings, the amount of space available and other information regarding the details of the buildings. With 500 units sold in the last three years, the City of Haverhill is looking to continue its expansion.

Mayor Fiorentini stated:

“I think the conference was a great idea. It served its purpose as an outreach to the business community. It gave both developers and brokers the opportunity to interact with one another, and possibly come to an agreement as to where they want to run their business and how they want to run it in the city of Haverhill.”
