The board member may read a written communication from any person. However, a written communication that relates to quasi-judicial action pending before a board member shall not be presumed prejudicial to the action, and such written communication shall be made a part of the record before final action on the matter. Board members may conduct investigations and site visits and may receive expert opinions regarding quasi-judicial action pending before them. Such activities shall not be presumed prejudicial to the action if the existence of the investigation, site visit or expert opinion is made a part of the record before final action on the matter.
